In the field of user experience, I am utilize my background and knowledge in consumer psychology to empathize with users. I am capable of conducting foundational, comprehensive research to develop strong designs and experiences. I design modern, visually appealing user interfaces to support a positive user experience. I am self-motivated and dedicated to what I do, which allows me to work efficiently. While working on multiple projects at once, time management and communication are crucial to ensure things are done to the highest standards.
